DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office Action is responsive to communications filed on July 17, 2007.

Claim 8 has been cancelled, thus claims 1-7 and 9-16 remain pending in the application.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-7 and 9-16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

4. Claims 1, 9 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Krishnammorthy (US 7,054,923), in view of Kukkai (US 7,124,355).

Krishnammorthy discloses a method comprising:

in a portal, presenting a control level page in a first browser session (accessing navigation portal 402 via a browser 304; col. 6: lines 24-27); and presenting an execution level page in a second browser session while maintaining the first browser session (e.g., navigating to the premium services page; col. 6: lines 29-42);

receiving work performed on the execution level page (invoking an application by clicking on respective link; col. 6: lines 42-44);

navigating to the control level page from the execution level page and navigating back to the execution level page (Figures 6-9);

Krishnammorthy also teaches a cross functional application to provide communication between at least one of an object modeling tool (web server), a process modeling tool (navigation page/portal), and a user interface tool (browser). See Figure 5.

Krishnammorthy discloses substantially all the claimed limitations, except the execution level page preserving the work performed before navigating to the control level page.

Kukkai teaches the execution level page preserving the work performed before navigating to the control level page (e.g., step 340, if the page is an internet application, persistency control logic 240 is enable and “locks” the application, thereby causing the application to persist; col. 9: lines 18-31).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to apply Kukkai’s method of persistent control an information browser in Krishnammorthy’s system in order to provide a seamless integration of information browsing from multiple independent uncollaborated information sources, including running independent unrelated applications within the context of information browsing.

5. Claims 2-7 and 10-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Krishnammorthy, in view of Kukkai, as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Anuff et al (US 6,327,628), hereinafter Anuff.

Regarding claims 2 and 10, Krishnammorthy-Kukkai does not explicitly call for the control level page including messages and work triggers.

Anuff teaches the control level page including messages and work triggers (Figure 2; col. 3: line 58 – col. 4: line 5).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine Anuff's portal server in Krishnammorthy-Kukkai's system, in order to maintain an effective portal that allows users to gain access to resources at various network site.

Regarding claims 3 and 11, Krishnammorthy-Kukkai-Anuff also discloses the control level page includes trackable work objects (Anuff; Figure 2; col. 3: line 58 – col. 4: line 5).

Regarding claims 4 and 12, Krishnammorthy-Kukkai-Anuff also discloses the control level page includes links to services and objects in an execution level page (Krishnammorthy; col. 6: lines 19-56).

Regarding claims 5 and 13, Krishnammorthy-Kukkai-Anuff also discloses the services and objects correspond to a user's workset (Anuff, col. 4: lines 47-67).

Regarding claims 6 and 14, Krishnammorthy-Kukkai-Anuff also discloses the control level page includes a user's personal files and contacts (Anuff; Figure 2; col. 3: lines 52-57).

Regarding claims 7 and 15, Krishnammorthy-Kukkai-Anuff also discloses the control level page includes links to one or more workset areas (Krishnammorthy; col. 6: lines 19-56).

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new grounds of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
